

TCI to Demonstrate DecisionLender 4 LOS Platform at Jack Henry Banking Educational Conference October 18-20
Cloud-based solution enables lenders to automate and manage all loan origination processes and workflows

Islandia, NY, October 18, 2016 – Teledata Communications Inc. (TCI) (www.tcicredit.com), a provider of cloud-based loan origination solutions for banks, credit unions, finance companies and online lenders, will showcase its popular DecisionLender 4 cloud-based loan origination solution at the Jack Henry Banking Education Conference, set for October 18-20 at the Gaylord Texan hotel in Grapevine, Texas. TCI will be located at booth 710, and will be providing demonstrations of the platform throughout the exhibition.

DecisionLender 4 is a cloud-based loan origination system that gives lenders the ability to customize and streamline their loan origination processes and workflows, eliminating the need for overburdened and costly IT resources. Lenders use DecisionLender 4 to manage a number of tasks, including adding application data fields, adjusting decisioning rules, building scorecards, fulfilling reporting requirements, and completing loan documentation. Through this advanced technology, lenders can take immediate advantage of market opportunities by sector, region, merchant, or any other parameter.

“The Jack Henry Banking Educational Conference is considered one of the most respected events in the financial sector, drawing a wide range of financial institutions and industry professionals that are interested in the next wave of innovations that can positively impact the industry,” explained Barry Kirby II, vice president of sales for TCI. “We look forward to participate at the conference, and demonstrate exactly why DecisionLender 4 is building a growing legion of lenders that are now able to compete faster and more effectively, reduce time and costs, and meet the changing requirements of the marketplace.”
